

New Appointment by Delta Lloyd Asset Management

Daan van der Werf (49) has been named Chief Commercial Officer at Delta Lloyd Asset Management starting 6 March 2017. As Chief Commercial Officer, Mr Van der Werf will be responsible for sales and account management and marketing and product management.

Mr van der Werf has over twenty years of asset management experience and, in addition to his expertise in the field, he also brings to his new role an extended network of institutional investors. For the last eleven years, he was employed by Kempen Capital Management. As director of institutional relations and a member of the management team, he shared responsibility for the strong growth in fiduciary management and specific investment products at Kempen over the last decade. Mr van der Werf began his career at ABN AMRO where he worked for thirteen years as a portfolio manager, relations consultant and institutional relations manager.
