

Delta Lloyd once again included in DJSI

Delta Lloyd has once again been included in the Dow Jones Sustainability Index (DJSI) World and the DJSI Europe. This was announced by S&P Dow Jones Indices and RobecoSAM on 8 September.

Ingrid de Graaf, member of Delta Lloyd's Executive Board: "We are pleased to be once again included in the DJSI. We see this as a reward for, and recognition of, our sustainable approach. Sustainability is an integral part of our strategy. Adopting a responsible approach to long-term certainties and uncertainties has been at the heart of Delta Lloyd's business operations for more than 200 years."

Delta Lloyd's policy on sustainability is based on three pillars: responsible insurance, responsible investments and the Delta Lloyd Foundation. Delta Lloyd does this with a responsible business with a focus on people and environment with the important value transparency. This is reflected in the results of DJSI. Delta Lloyd scores among other things well on Principles for Sustainable Insurance, Corporate Citizenship (with the Delta Lloyd Foundation) and Tax Strategy (transparency). Tax Strategy was also recently recognized by the The Dutch Association of Investors for Sustainable Development (VBDO). Delta Lloyd was named as an example for others in transparent reporting of tax.

DJSI

The Dow Jones Sustainability Index was launched in 1999 and monitors businesses worldwide that have made sustainability a priority in their policies. This prestigious index represents the top 10% of the 2,500 largest companies in each sector of the Dow Jones Global Index. The annual ranking is preceded by an in-depth analysis of a company's economic, social and ecological performance. Relevant indicators include risk management, corporate governance, branding, measures to minimise greenhouse gases, service provision and HR policy.
